

It's a Family Affair

Transitioning your family-owned business

Exiting your business or grooming your successor can be difficult. Deciding how to pass your business to your children, or whether to do so at all, can be even more daunting. Impartiality is critical in addressing emotional family issues and their effects on your business.

If you are passing your business to a younger generation, or you are taking over from an older generation, this discussion is for you. Come learn through the successes and failures of others.

ABOUT OUR PANELISTS:

SUPPORTED BY EXPERT CONSULTANTS:

Gil Pomar
Market President,
CenterState Bank

John Thompson
Senior Vice President-investments,
Forbes & Thompson
Wealth Management Group

Lewis Hunter
Principal, ROCG Hunter Consulting
Business transition specialists

Dr. Don Capener,
Dean
Davis College of Business

Jacques Guske, and son Adam
Owners of nine area
McDonalds restaurants

Fitz Powell
Current owner of the 76-year-old Cecil W. Powell & Company

John Falconetti
Third-generation owner of Drummond Press

When: January 29, 2013

Where: Jacksonville University,
Davis College of Business
2800 University Blvd North
Jacksonville, FL 32211

Attendees are encouraged to bring their senior/junior family member

Cost: $35 for two attendees

RSVP Required

Agenda:

- | | |
|------------|---|
| 8:00 a.m. | Meet and greet |
| 8:30 a.m. | Introductions Brian Barquilla, Publisher,
Advantage Business Magazine |
| 8:45 a.m. | "The transfer dilemma" and discussion moderated by:
Dr. Don Capener, Dean of the Davis College of Business,
Jacksonville University |
| 10:00 a.m. | Major takeaways summary Jim Molis, ROCG |
| 10:15 a.m. | Questions and Answers |
| 10:30 a.m. | Program ends |

Visit: Advantagebizmag.com/events to register

PRODUCED BY:

ADVANTAGE

 CenterState
BANK

THE
FORBES & THOMPSON
Wealth Management Group
of Wells Fargo Advisors

ROCG